

FORT SHERIDAN,

As Described by a Lady We All Know.

A Pleasant Home For the Defenders of Their Country, and Their Families to Live In.

GUESTS ARE MADE COMFORTABLE.

FORT SHERIDAN, ILL., May 31st.—To-morrow we leave this beautiful fort for the bustling, busy city of Chicago and it is with many regrets as our visit has been full of pleasure and enlightening.

The day we arrived all were in their gala dress, awaiting the coming of Prince Napoleon, who had been invited to inspect the troops, hold a reception and be entertained by the Colonel commanding. The Infantry, Artillery and Cavalry were in full dress and presented a most imposing array as they went through with the different drills. As the day was cold I was invited to see the parade from the Colonel's office, a large room with plenty of plate glass windows and inviting seats. In a little while the Prince was invited in and we were introduced as guests from Kentucky. He speaks with a very foreign accent, but I understood his pleasant speech when he said, "Ah, yes, the land of pretty women, wine and horses." Gosh says he is very fond of the gay world and has large interests in some of the finest gambling houses.

The Government is trying to make this one of the best posts in the army and so seems to have succeeded. It is about 25 miles above Chicago, on Lake Michigan, a most beautiful site, with splendid sanitary regulations and handsome brick buildings. The Milwaukee brick being white gives it a clean, healthy look to each house. All the dwelling houses are very modern, four stories and rooms graded in number according to rank of office. Lieut. Mitchell, my host, has his house next to the Lieut. Colonel, and a beautiful yard, in fact, all the yards are in one and white stone pavements and gravel drives around the different posts. All the houses are finished in white pine highly polished, and from the basement to the third story you find everything complete in every detail. The kitchen could please the most fastidious housekeeper; closets, pantries, bath rooms and all in such perfection that there is danger of making the wives of the officers dissatisfied when ordered to come so far away from civilization or comfort. Of course, there are some grumblers here, but only on the servant question and expense of coal, for this is a large place and the furnaces are kept going night and day eight months in the year. We have had some lovely spring days and the grounds are beautiful with the flowers, some so beautiful that I feel tempted to transplant them to Kentucky.

Just now the hand is giving us its tricky concert. They number twenty and are skilled musicians. Every night they are in demand for the hop which is given in a very handsome hall, underneath which are billiard rooms, club rooms and general reading room, all of which are so lavishly that the ladies complain and some times threaten to go down and hunt up their partners for the next dance. Just between the club house and barracks the soldiers drill twice a day. They are kept busy but not enough to make them discontented, although last night the sergeant of the post was telling down to a quiet game of what a messenger came for him. He soon returned saying he had a clear case of shams, some soldier trying to play off and get a discharge, but he ordered a cool shower bath and soon righted them for future service.

The fishing is very good on the lake every now and then we see long strings of beautiful perch, etc., being carried home by a successful angler. Although the lake is very deep yet mothers trust their young children on the pier and fish throughout the day. Perhaps they are making brave soldiers of them. All look healthy and vigorous and enjoy army life even more than their civilian ones.

Among so many children I can not understand why they have no Sunday-school or regular service. The Catholic Priest holds services every Sunday and never neglects the young. Have just heard that Gen. Schofield and staff would be out to-morrow, and all the troops would be ordered to greet and parade in his inspection. I wish I could stay, but the dedication of Kentucky's State Building takes place and I must be loyal to my beloved state, where one will see most eloquent, disinterested and noble hearted men.

Do You Know That a large percentage of deaths in this country is caused by consumption and lung trouble? A little cold neglected in the beginning often terminates in consumption. Every time you cough you give the troublemaker a chance to grow. It is a disease which is difficult to control. There is one remedy that cures quickly every kind of a cough. That is Dr. Hale's Throat and Lung Cure. It is the best. Are you out of the best? For sale at 25c a bottle, a bottle at short a Haynes drug store.

"Idiot."

Only the quotation marks of this caption are the Courier-Journal's; the rest belongs to our esteemed Atlanta contemporary, the Constitution. The Courier-Journal can discuss the financial situation without dealing in vituperation. When we find that we can not we hope we shall be able to recognize the fact that the financial situation is not a subject which comes within our province.

"Idiot" is the title of the following delectable editorial remarks by our Atlanta contemporary:

"The Courier-Journal, commenting on some remarks of a far Western paper, has this to say: 'It has never dawned upon this literary body for the Government to redeem its coin notes in silver when gold is demanded would be to do the very thing for which it is now issuing Secretary Carlisle's discreditable and debasing the standard silver dollar.'

"In order to understand and appreciate to the full extent the idiotic attitude—there is another phrase that will describe it—let the reader go over it again and take it in. Here is a declaration that to use the silver dollar as money will be to disintegrate against it—that to pay it out as money will be to disintegrate it."

We protest again that we do not characterize this unique article of our Atlanta contemporary as an "idiotic attitude." But it is in our opinion a masterpiece of the word, an idiot is a natural-born fool, whose defective intellectual powers preclude the possibility of his ever being any thing else. The writer of the foregoing editorial is not, therefore, necessarily an idiot; he may be simply ignorant; and ignorance, where not based upon idleness, can ultimately be cured.

But it is incomprehensibly strange how such absolutely primitive ignorance could gain access to the editorial page of a journal of the Constitution's character, and especially in the discussion of monetary questions. Dear old Atlanta Remue at his best was never so amusing as this financial exposition which appears in the columns of the other bill he would "disintegrate" the mutilated bill. Having less confidence in one bill than the other, he would use first the one in which he had confidence.

Again, if the writer of the Constitution's "Idiot" editorial should incur a debt of $10,000 in the purchase of a library containing all the literature of the monetary question about the first principles of money; if he had $10,000 in gold and $10,000 in silver, and for some reason, whether justifiable or not, he should fear that the public might have less confidence in silver than gold, would he not pay for his library in silver, and would he not thereby "disintegrate" the silver in preference to gold?

Now take the case of the Secretary of the Treasury, stronger even than these illustrations. The Government issues coin notes, payable in either gold or silver, at the option of the Secretary of the Treasury, under injunction of maintaining his metallic parity. The holder of these notes presents them for redemption, and demands gold. If the Secretary refuses to pay gold, but pays silver instead, against which metal he is discriminating, the silver which he "uses," or the gold, which he keeps? And if it becomes known that the Secretary thus discriminates between the two metals how long would it be before confidence in the Government's ability to maintain gold payments when demanded would disappear and silver would be "disintegrated" in value relatively to gold, thus destroying the parity which it is the object of the Government to preserve, and which is indispensable to a sound currency?

These are such simple and self-evident propositions that it seems waste of words to repeat them. Yet still premising the Constitution's remarks upon ignorance rather than idleness—the deliverances of that paper (coupled with those of Denver journals which the other day expostulated Secretary Carlisle for refusing to redeem the silver certificates in silver) prove that there is still material for a primary class, to which the above is not only of finance but of common sense, are unknown and unlearned. To this class this little first lesson is commended.—Courier-Journal.

O. H. Rogers, of Adams, N. Y., is sending but dry head for three years on account of that terrible disease, Dyspepsia. He states that he was entirely cured by Dr. Hale's Food-Salt. The evidence is so convincing.

"Iota" Again.

She is Willing to Let "Reader" Dance to the Valley of Death.

BUT FOR HER PART SHE WILL SERVE THE LORD.

"Gum Sucks" Are As Offensive As Dances and the Devil Always Present to Get in His Work.

HEROD IS NOT IN IT.

McDANIEL, Ky., June 3d, 1893.—Mr. Editor:—Your "Reader" from Tobin's port, it seems to me, is willfully in the dark as to Herod's case. Josephus narrates gives a lengthy account of all the Herods.

As to what I wrote being "gum work" that is a mere matter of taste I suppose in your "Reader." I must say again that I do not see it in the light. Perhaps your "Reader" does though, for I can not see any connection between dancing and Herod's case. A "drunken ass" it is.

I certainly do think that the great sin in dancing lies in the dancing done together. If your "Reader" will turn to verses 21-23, he will find that the young men were "dancing in the vineyard." That does not look like dancing. I do not see that it is always necessary to get well acquainted with people to do them good. People often receive great good from reading books and writings of people with whom they have no acquaintance, and in fact, never see. If most things together to dance is where the good comes in may the good Lord help us! I have never known one instance where any one was made better by attending dances, while many have lost all taste for everything that is good and pure, and all that I ever knew who were religious and were led astray by the devil on that have lost their religion and gone back to the world. I do not say that they have all left the church, for it is not necessary to leave the church to get back to the world.

Of course young people need amusement, and I love to see them meet together and enjoy themselves, but it is not at all necessary to go on the devil's ground to find enjoyment and if they do they will find only vanity and vexation of spirit.

As to the difference there is between dancing and the games of forfeit which your "Reader" names, and others of the kind, I do not think they are particularly better than dancing, but that does not make it right to dance. That which is well as it was as much right to kill men with a gun as to kill them with a whip. And that is not reasoning at all. It is true that in either case the person is killed, but it does not prove that there is more sin in one case than the other. The object in view in either case is the death of the victim. So in dancing, or playing those games of forfeit, the object of the devil is to offend and delude his victims, not that they may find happiness but out of the malice of his devilish nature. Surely God's children can find enjoyment without going into sin.

Let's take God's word where it teaches us to be pure, holy and good, and not to try to try to prove that black is white, for we cannot do it. Let your "Reader" dance to the valley of the shadow of death, as for me and my house, as far as my influence goes, we will serve the Lord.—Iota.

Miss Maud Sulzer is a Graduate. The commencement exercises of the Louisville Female Seminary, were held in Masonic Temple Theatre in that city. Monday afternoon, June 13th, the hall was crowded with parents and friends of the sweet-faced graduates and almost every one carried a pretty bouquet of flowers.

Miss Maud Sulzer, of this city, was among the graduates. During the presentation of the medals, Miss Sulzer in a most address, presented one of her classmates, Miss Clara Sulzer, who had been presented the diploma of the graduate for the younger pupils. The stage was a perfect bank of flowers at the conclusion. After the exercises, Miss Sulzer, principal, and Miss Clara Sulzer, were the guests had been invited and the same persons were well filled. Dancing, music and a merry time followed.—Cannelton Times-Telegraph.

A County With Good Roads.

The importance of good wagon roads to the prosperity of the country is so great that all the information obtainable upon the subject should be laid before the people. The tax paid by the agricultural community to bad roads is such a heavy one that the possibility of escaping it should be shown as often and clearly as possible. A short time ago one of the leading magazines had an article in which it was stated that Park county, Ind., was one of the two counties in the United States having the best system of wagon roads. This complimentary statement led the Indianapolis Journal to make an examination of the roads in Park county, and the report of its examination is deserving the attention of all interested in this important subject.

As to the quality of the roads, the observer reported that while not so good as asphalt streets, they are so even and smooth that it is a pleasure to ride over them at a speed which would break cinders and painfully jolt their occupants. A short time ago one of the leading magazines had an article in which it was stated that Park county, Ind., was one of the two counties in the United States having the best system of wagon roads. This complimentary statement led the Indianapolis Journal to make an examination of the roads in Park county, and the report of its examination is deserving the attention of all interested in this important subject.

As to the results of building these roads the observer reports that people who live within six or eight miles of the county seat are as much a part of the town as those who live within the corporate limits. This is because the excellent roads have changed the methods of conveyance. Unless the farmer is taking a load of produce to market, he does not jolt into town on a fast wagon, but in a "wheeler" adapted to the excellent roads. There are doubtless more good carriages and horses in Park county than in any county of similar population and employment in Indiana. The gravel roads have wrought the change. While the people in other counties are mud-bound three or four months in the year, the mud season does not interfere with traffic in Park county. Upon a good gravel road a full load can be hauled as well in the wet season as the dry.

How are these roads made? There is no secret about that. Park county experience shows that good roads, that will last and remain good with proper care, can be built anywhere where good gravel can be obtained and where the road-bed can be drained. Capt. Mencham, who has built some of the oldest of these roads, and over the rugged country that drainage is all-important and must be secured from the start. In regard to under-draining the road-bed, this experienced builder held it is not necessary, because a foot of gravel will only pack four inches; that is, all the gravel below four inches, if it is gravel, will be loose, and a natural drain for whatever water is not taken up by traffic in Park county. Upon a good gravel road a full load can be hauled as well in the wet season as the dry.

The roads are kept up by a special tax, expended by local inspectors, each of whom is charged with the repair of a given section. The smallest truck in the county is repaired on this, winter or summer. The gravel laws are simple for the maintenance of gravel roads in Park county. First, gravel is payable in cash, and the cash is paid to taxpayers for teams and labor for repairs. Construction at the option of the contractor, the cash road cost $2,000 a mile, though the county is not bound to pay more than $1,000 a mile. Besides on these gravel roads, however, bring up the cost in a few years to equality with the better roads.

There are a few parts of Kentucky in which there is not abundance of material to make good roadbeds of gravel, gravel or good limestone to macadamize with. A good macadam road can be made just as cheaply as a good gravel road, and if properly constructed and rolled, can be made and kept as smooth as a gravel road. These Park county roads are all free. They cost something, as all good things do, but they more than pay for themselves.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

"One Ointment, One Cure," is a little book, written by Dr. W. H. Gregory, 80 North Washington St., Rochester, N. Y., and it has become a household name. It is a little book that her poor mother had had the consumption, she is from a consumptive family and had been on the decline till the carriage "broke down" at last. Well I went for Dr. Fennell's Golden Balm, giving her a drop in a small lump of sugar, every three hours, and it with her about a month and you ought to see the change! She became healthy and robust. I am knowing to several experienced consumptives.

At a called meeting of the City Council last Friday night the property owners on Wall street discussed the establishment of a grade on said street. There is considerable objection to the new proposed grade, on account of the putting some of the sidewalks and some below the level of the grade, but it is solely due to the irregularity in which the buildings have been erected. Had the grade been established fifteen or twenty years ago, as it should have been, there should have been no objection without cause of contention will be waived over.

Mr. Alex. Madhux, of Evansville, is in the city the guest of J. D. Gregory. Mr. Madhux was born and partly raised near Cloverport, and he had been in the city since he had seen the home of his childhood. He paid the place a visit last week, but was somewhat disappointed in the appearance. Many changes had been made.

It is Miss Rose Allen that has been elected first assistant of the Cloverport High School instead of Miss Annie Allen, as we had it last week. The principal has not yet been chosen, and there will probably be no one selected for a couple of weeks yet. Frank Fells came over from Elizabethtown Monday and made application for the place and it is thought that he is favored by some members of the board.

Richard Pool, colored, died at Cairo, Illinois, and was brought here last Thursday for interment. Pool was a son of Lucina Pool, of this city. He was a good man, and was well known as one of the best farmers that ever thrived on a shovelful of coal into the furnaces of a steamer on the Western waters. He had been a member of the Cloverport Baptist church for twenty years, and he died in the full faith of Christ.

U. S. Deputy Marshal Bowington and Chris Alt went to Moccasin last week and arrested John Redman and son, Bob Redman, and Chris Burck for moonshining. They found a still in operation on the place, but the prisoners claim that the still had never been used to secure a belt and had never been used for improper purposes. The prisoners were taken to Louisville, but have given bond and returned home.

The McNevin Comedy Company went to pieces here last week. They had been playing in poor houses in Hazard, Ky., and Cannelton and Cloverport was not able to pull them out of the hole. They were not entirely broke, however, for they all ran out of town after first paying their debts here. Some members of the company claim that they were deceived by McNevin and Langdon, who refused to pay them their salary when it should have been paid. They thought that they had money in their pockets.

Our farmers are very busy plowing corn. Mr. Con Simons is on the sick list this week. We are glad to hear that Mrs. J. England is improving. Mr. Jas England shipped nine head of fine hogs last week. Miss Jennie Barnes, who has been visiting to Derby, returned home last Saturday accompanied by her friend, Miss Mary Groves. Mrs. Sarah Boultinghouse, who has been visiting friends here, returned home Sunday morning. Mrs. Amanda Davis, of Louisville, who has been visiting friends and relatives here, has returned home. Miss Mel Lyons, after a very pleasant visit to Derby, returned home last Saturday accompanied by her friend, Miss Belle Hargis. Rev. Jas. Pleasant has broke for the hills, as there is nothing to break the sun off in the bottom, and he has to sit on the plow so long before the horn blows, he is afraid he will become round-shouldered.

Teeth Extracted Without Pain.

Dr. M. A. Hale, of Lexington, specialist in Dental Surgery, and sole agent for the Odontometer Painless Process of extracting teeth, is in Cloverport, June 15, 16 and 17, and will extract teeth entirely without pain or injury to mind or body, while the patients are wide awake and in the full possession of their senses. Dr. Hale has extracted teeth in more than forty counties in Kentucky, and two weeks ago removed nearly six hundred teeth in Owensboro during a short visit to that city. Come early, as the doctor will remain in Cloverport only three days.

Oh, It Was Awful!

Mooley, the miller up yonder at Clifton Mills, sent us down a paper four feet about half full of what he called smoking tobacco.

Now, we know the earnestness and kindness of the old man's heart, and we are satisfied that the tobacco was sent for nothing but kindly feelings. Mooley never jokes but it was positively nasty, funky, stinking stuff that we gave it all to Dave Murray.
